

Haliburton Legion Burn Their Mortgage

The Haliburton branch of the Canadian Legion held their annual presentation dinner on Monday, November 21 at the Legion hall with 62 in attendance. It was one of the best planned affairs the branch has seen in a long time for which the committee deserve a lot of credit. Credit should also be given to the Ladies' Auxiliary for cooking and serving such a wonderful dinner.

John Fergus did a magnificent job as master of ceremonies wielding an ancient baton as a gavel he kept things going in great style.

The head table was occupied by president Wally and Mrs. Chambers, Bun and Helen Davidson, district commander Frank (Dude) Hills and wife Dora, deputy zone commander Harry Howes, and district secretary, Lloyd Burrows, mayor of Lindsay.

The past zone commanders medal was presented to Geo. Potts through Bun Davidson and Wally Chambers by Lloyd Burrows who told of the many great works Geo. Potts had done in the Legion. A delegation is being formed to take the medal to Sunnybrook hospital where it will be presented to him.

Harry Howes was then called upon to decorate Bun Davidson with the past president's medal—a third time for Bun.

One of the highlights of the evening was the burning of the mortgage with Dr. Harry Good officiating. Charter member Jack Preston had the honor of lighting the document with Albert Curry and George Brennan sharing the honors.

George Brennan was asked to give a short resume of the history of the branch since receiving its charter in 1928 in which he told something of the members who tried to keep things going and that it was not until 1944 that the branch began to make plans for a home of its own. This was accomplished the following year. A fire destroyed this home a few years later, but nothing daunted a few stalwarts who got together which brought about the present structure.

The speaker of the evening, district commander Frank Hills was introduced by George Brennan. The speaker told of the great strides the Legion had made since its beginning in 1926 when most of the existing veterans' organizations formed one united organization which has been of great benefit not only to the veteran and his dependents, but to the communities in general wherever a Legion branch exists. In more solemn tones he said that 92,000 Canadians had paid the supreme sacrifice to safeguard that which we all hold dear and he charged every member present to remember his oath when he was obligated to give freely of his services to the branch, his community, his Queen and his country.

A further surprise was in store, for the recipient anyway, in the presentation of an award of excellence to the branch for its bulletin, the Highland Veteran. This was presented to the editor George Brennan who in turn presented it to president Wally Chambers. This award is made once a year for the best branch bulletin in the Ontario command and since our bulletin has been in existence less than two years it speaks well of the efforts of all concerned for having won this award two years in a row.

The speaker was thanked on behalf of the branch by past president Ross Anderson. The ladies were thanked by vice president Fred Ewing.

Garages Victimized By Thieves

Break-In At Boice Motors

Early Tuesday morning marauders gained entrance to Boice Motors by breaking a pane of glass which enabled them to unfasten the lock on the side door of the building.

However, after they were in they found it necessary to break another door in order to get into the front section of the garage where they helped themselves to cigars and cigarettes.

They were in no apparent hurry as they went about their business taking time to consume some pop and opening a box containing a radio.

Possibly they were looking for a little musical accompaniment as they went about their work as they did not harm the radio in any way.

Robert J. Dart Obtains High Honors At U.of T.

We note in the issue of Wednesday's Globe & Mail, a picture of Robert J. Dart of Haliburton, who with Mr. Jean Pierre Graveline obtained the two highest standings in Canada in the intermediate chartered accountants examinations.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dart of Haliburton and is 22 years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Dart have every right to feel proud of their son as time and time again he has proven to be a brilliant scholar.

To obtain second place out of 1,200 students from across Canada who were writing their intermediate exams in accountancy is no mean feat. It also demonstrates that being born in Haliburton is no handicap to obtaining a high place in any field of endeavor providing you are not afraid of hard work.

This young man has two more years of strenuous study before he finally becomes a full fledged chartered accountant and we feel assured that when the results are announced he will be very close to the top, if not first.

Friends of Philip Trenton son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. George Brennan, will be happy to learn that he was successful in passing his final examinations as a chartered accountant. He is presently employed in the provincial treasury department in Toronto.

EAGLE LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greer and boys of Peterboro visited during the week end with his mother.

Mr. Karl Hanke has returned to his work in Montreal.

Thieves Visit Elstone's Garage

In the early hours of Sunday morning last thieves gained entry into Elstone's garage and as in previous break-ins of late the loot was small but considerable damage was done by the marauders who likely were provoked because they did not find a considerable sum of money lying around.

Entrance to the garage was made by removing a piece of glass which allowed the culprits to unfasten a hasp that bars the back door.

After helping themselves to some pop which they apparently drank while sitting in the office, they rifled the cash register which netted them about $1.30

They spent considerable time trying to force open the door of the safe and as in a previous break-in at Curry Motors they broke the handle off. One wonders how they expect to obtain entrance to a safe by smashing the handle, but however these nitwits that are continuously breaking and entering can scarcely expect to go on indefinitely without receiving a suspended sentence.

Minden P.S. Open House

Wednesday saw the open house at Minden public school when parents and friends might visit the school and see their children's work and talk with the teachers.

Following this the regular meeting of the Home and School association met in Mr. Morgan's room with Mrs. McCarey's room winning the banner and award for most parents in attendance.

The feature of the meeting was a spelling bee with Marilyn Harrison, Diane Earle, Theresa Strong, Bonnie Lee Prentice, Nancy Easton, Judy Hughes, Penny O'Neil and Linda Cowen taking part. Finalist was Bonnie Lee Prentice.

Honor certificates were presented to the following: Tanya Hewitt, Barbara Deacon, Patsy Deacon, Jane McKay, Marie Hughes, Dorothy McCracken, Diane Earle, Bonnie Lee Prentice, Theresa Strong, Judy Hughes, Lauralyn Austen, Junior Alton, Gena Robertson, Marilyn Paul, Linda McKay, Eddie Cox, Donna Berry, Allison Brandon, Susanne Deacon, Nancy McInerney and medals to Linda Wagg and Jane McKay.

Swimming pins from the Red Cross society were also presented to Carolyn Coburn, L. Lister, Stuart Brandon, Barbara Deacon, Patsy Deacon, Mary Ann Dollo, Cathy Fleming and Neil Hewitt.

This meeting will be the last for the fall. The next meeting will be the fourth Tuesday in January.

The Captain's Desk

CAPT. W. KERR
Salvation Army

Often there appears on my desk articles on a variety of subjects. A few of these I have found most interesting and it is one of these that I would like to pass on to you. My purpose is not to condemn or judge but that through the reading of the "Captain's Desk" series many might be blessed and be more anxious to serve and follow Jesus Christ.

THERE ARE TOO MANY HYPOCRITES IN THE CHURCH

Have you ever given this excuse for not attending church? If so, have you ever stopped to analyze the statement? It is agreed that there are too many hypocrites in the church. But to stay away from the Lord's church for this reason is being unfair. This excuse might be leveled against any institution that is composed of people.

Any employee who does not give his employer a good day's work for his wage is being hypocritical. Wherever people are found, and whenever standards are set and expected to be kept, you will find hypocrites.

The local church is no exception. In fact, Christ himself once called a group of church leaders hypocrites (Matthew 23:14), yet He attended church regularly, and expects us to.

The church is not perfect because it is composed of imperfect people. Of course, this in no way condones the hypocrisy wherever it is found.

Our Canadian currency has counterfeits (or hypocrites) circulating among the genuine, but we do not say, "I will not use money because there are too many counterfeits."

What is a hypocrite? A hypocrite is a person who professes to be what in reality he is not. There are many who profess to be Christians but who are not Christians. Profession does not always indicate possession. The sad thing is that many are attempting to live the life of a Christian without possessing the life of a Christian. This life can only be received by a personal faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. John says, "He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life" (1 John 5:12).

It is not only true that this excuse is based on a misconception that all churches should be perfect, but also that a person can judge Christianity by looking at people instead of at the Lord Jesus. The Word of God explicitly warns us against using men as our standard of conduct. Isaiah 45:22 states, "Look unto ME, and be ye saved." No matter how long we examine the person of Jesus Christ, we will never find Him to be a hypocrite. Men may be found to be untrue, but Jesus never fails. If we look to Him, we shall never be disappointed. The local church may have its hypocrites, but the one person worse than a hypocrite is the man who hides behind one!

May I suggest that if you have been staying away from church because there are hypocrites in it, turn away from self and others and look to the One who will never disappoint you, Jesus Christ. A Christian is one who has acknowledged his sin before a Holy God and personally received God's Son into his heart and life by an act of faith.

"For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast" (Ephesians 2:8-9).

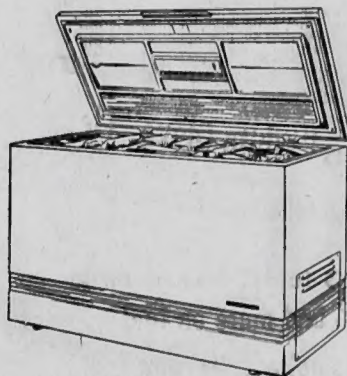

"But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name: Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God" (John 1:12-13).

The hypocrite will answer to God for his pretense. Will you be any better off if you hide behind the hypocrite?

IN QUEST OF YESTERDAY

by NILA REYNOLDS
A HISTORY OF HALIBURTON

Twentieth Instalment WITH TRAP AND GUN Chapter 10

The idea which resulted in the inception of the Algonquin Park originated in the brain of an enterprising Irish emigrant from Belfast, Alexander Kirkwood who in 1870 became connected with the Ontario Department of Crown Lands. Eight years later, while working on a pamphlet on frontier settlement called "The Undeveloped Lands of Northern and Western Ontario" he became obsessed with the idea that only disaster could follow the opening of the height of land area in the Huron-Ottawa tract for settlement.

With the terrible example of the wanton destruction of timber and the senseless slaughter of game which was already plaguing southern Ontario fresh in his mind this man, whose foresight has harvested untold blessings for the whole of Ontario, began to preach a new gospel—conservation!!

In 1885 Kirkwood proposed to the commissioner of Crown lands, the Hon. T. B. Pardee, the immediate establishment of a national forest and park to protect the headwaters and tributaries of the Muskoka, Petawawa, Bonnechere and Madawaska rivers with the recommendation that it be unlawful to disturb or destroy any fur bearing animals or cut and market timber without government supervision in this area. He suggested that the Park be named for its original occupants, the Algonquin Indians and prophesied that it would eventually become a health resort and tourist area for the citizens of Ontario.

One suspects that Mr. Kirkwood had kissed the famous Blarney stone before leaving Erin's shore for he butters up Mr. Pardee with telling eloquence. "The commissioner of Crown lands who establishes Algonquin forest and park raises a monument that will not crumble or decay and his memory will be cherished in the warmest corners of many hearts."

Although at that time Pardee resisted the blandishments, Kirkwood persisted with his research on the whole problem. Soon unexpected reinforcement came from a provincial land survey, James Dickson of Fenelon Falls who had conducted surveys of Finlayson and Paik township. His summary of land and water areas corroborated the arguments Kirkwood had been advancing for the establishment of a park.

Impressed at last, the Hon. T. B. Pardee authorized Dickson to report on the unsurveyed Townships of Sproule and Preston. Dickson recommended that 11 townships comprising 866 square miles be set aside for Kirkwood's brain child. Fired by the possibilities of what he had seen Dickson further suggested that a map of the area and a guide book be compiled for the convenience of summer canoe trippers although the nearest railway station at that time to the south was Haliburton. The whole report makes fine reading, for Dickson became a one man tourist bureau and so eloquently stated the case for preserving animals and timber that one can understand how the officials might be swayed by his rhetoric.

Unfortunately the now partisan Hon. T. B. Pardee died in 1889 and several years were to elapse before a royal commission which included Dickson and Kirkwood was appointed. In 1893 their findings resulted in the incorporation of 18 townships totaling 1,466 square miles into what is now the Algonquin Provincial Park.

James Dickson was a well known figure in the early history of Minden for at one time he maintained an office in that village. He must have been on familiar terms with many of the district's trappers whose lines extended into the proposed park. He, more than any of the other members of that royal commission, must have foreseen the complications which would arise from the expulsion of the trappers from their grounds for he furnished the department with a list of Dorset and Haliburton trappers who worked the park. To each of these men the department sent a copy of the Algonquin Park Act, the commissioners' report and a map showing the new park's boundaries with a letter which was supposed to convince the trappers that the land from which they had derived their living for over a quarter of a century was now closed to them forever. Only if accompanied by a ranger were they to be granted the right to return to their camps to collect their cached traps.

It is hard for someone from the 20th century to gauge the impact of this decision upon the men whose livelihood was dependent upon the furs they could obtain. None of them were educated men and the idea of conservation was as foreign and revolutionary as space travel was to the people of the 19th century.

James Sawyer was the first to realize its advantages. He became a member of the new park's seven man ranger staff and for 26 years served in that capacity. Some of the trappers abandoned forever the way of trap and gun and embraced the logging industry. Some moved west where as yet there were no conservation programs to limit a trapping ground.

It would be a fine thing if one could say that all the trappers from Haliburton accepted the government's ruling and abided by the new laws. It would be a fine thing, but it wouldn't be true! When in 1895 the rangers were posting "no trespassing" signs and blazing out the park's western boundary facing the Dorset and Haliburton country they came upon frames which had been used to stretch skins the previous winter.

There is strong evidence that the illegal poaching might have been eliminated with much less trouble to all concerned had not the government unwisely adopted a scheme to finance the park's operation by themselves entering the fur business. Animals were trapped alive and shipped to foreign zoos but even more unfortunately the rangers, originally hired to protect the animals, were authorized to trap them for their skins which were stamped with a crown and sold by the government. In 1920, the last year the ill-starred venture was in operation the revenue for the year totaled $14,179.

What it cost the government during the period by increased illicit trapping which resulted from this policy must have far exceeded the monetary gain. In some cases the cabins which the trappers had built on their grounds were taken over by the government without compensation. Talking to the descendants of some of these trappers the better part of a century later one can still feel the bitterness engendered by his annexation. New fuel was added to the fires of outrage and antagonism when the government, which had deprived them of the grounds they had trapped for so long and now excluded them with armed game keepers, authorized these same game keepers to trap the fur they were supposed to protect. To a Haliburton trapper's way of thinking it was the government who was poaching on their ground and they acted accordingly.

From that day forth it was all out war. At first most of the advantages rested with the rebellious trappers who knew the park's waters as a bridegroom knows the face of his beloved. Some of the rangers were new in the district and until they became familiar with the country they were to protect they had to operate with the odds against them. In later years, when telephones were installed in the park and aircraft used for patrols the odds were reversed.

It is wrong to classify these men with common criminals. For the most part they were, excepting their poaching activities, excellent fathers, solid citizens and pillars of society. There are successful men in business today from all over the county who got their starting capital trapping in the park. Most of them are not ashamed for the fact.

Like smugglers on the English coast who have plied their unlawful trade for centuries, the trappers did not feel they were committing a crime, only taking back their own.

However the government and ranger force felt otherwise and the escapes and hurried journeys which ensued parallel the adventures of Robin Hood in Sherwood Forest. No one can live for long in Haliburton without encountering the colorful tales of these adventures. In most of them a certain chivalry seems unexpectedly apparent for some of the rangers are spoken of with the respect only accorded fair dealing men.

There is a story about an apprehended poacher who was the father of a large family. On the way to captivity he reversed his position by regaining possession of his loaded weapon. Holding his gun on his two captors he suggested a gentleman's agreement. "I have a large family of little children who will starve to death without the money my fur will bring," he explained. "If either of you interfere with me now I will have to shoot you, but if I am allowed to sell the fur to feed my family I will return and take my punishment." The story goes that he departed in peace, sold his fur and returned in due time as promised to serve several months in jail for his offense.

HALIBURTON COUNTY ECHO

PEN PICTURES OF PARLIAMENT by C. W. Hodgson, M.P.

Parliament is back at work again with the opening of the fourth session of the 24th parliament, just a little over three months since the last session ended on August 10.

Governor General George Vanier formally opened the new session by reading the speech from the throne in the senate chamber—a 2,000 word document that forecast a far reaching program by the government to combat unemployment and stimulate the country's economy. A full legislative program was announced that will keep the members of parliament busy until next summer. There was the usual color and pageantry, steeped in time worn tradition, as senator's and M.P.'s, heads of diplomatic missions in Ottawa, and other guests, numbering in all about 400, were present for the senate ceremony. Afterwards, the M.P.'s returned to the house of commons to roll up their sleeves and get down to business.

A supplementary budget, the throne speech announced, will be presented in parliament before Christmas. This may contain some tax cuts but taxes likely will be raised in other fields to bring the government additional revenue to finance its huge program of public works, house building, assistance to small business and aid to municipalities for sewage disposal and treatment plants.

Of particular interest to agricultural communities was an announcement by the government of steps to be taken for the stimulation of rural redevelopment, through federal, provincial and local partnership. On this point the throne speech said: "As an additional step in the national agricultural program, you will be asked to approve enabling legislation to authorize the federal government to join with provincial authorities and local groups throughout Canada in comprehensive programs of rural rehabilitation and development." The announcement added that the federal government "believes that as farming is a basic Canadian industry it must be made more stable and remunerative. Widening the uses of Canada's farm lands and water resources will be necessary for this purpose."

The federal government is also setting up a productivity council to include representatives of industry, agriculture, organized labor and other groups. The purpose of the council is to recommend means of increasing Canada's competitive position in both the domestic and export markets.

The government also, viewing water pollution as a serious problem, is introducing legislation to make long term loans to municipalities for sewage disposal and treatment plants, up to two thirds of the cost on terms similar to loans for limited dividend housing projects. As a special incentive for prompt action, one quarter of the amount of such loans will be written off when expended on work done before April of 1963.

To tackle unemployment in the construction industry, the government is introducing amendments to the National Housing Act to liberalize the terms of mortgage lending.

The throne speech made it plain that in the immediate future there will be emphasis on public works in an effort to roll back the jobless rolls and put more Canadians to work. With this goal in mind, the government is tabling almost immediately additional supplementary estimates for this year to finance various projects that are not provided for in the current budget. Some of the highlights announced in the throne speech were:

1. The Unemployment Insurance Act will be amended "to safeguard the basic purpose of the act, to strengthen the fund and to correct abuses which have developed in practice."

2. Legislation will be introduced to encourage greater participation by Canadians in ownership and control of industry and resources.

3. Foreign controlled businesses and labor organizations will be compelled to disclose their Canadian financial operations.

4. Amendments to the criminal code will deal with capital punishment (probably the establishment of degrees or murder) and the treatment of criminal sexual psychopaths.

5. A tightening up of the administrative practices under the customs act, and a revision of the definition in the customs tariff of "a class or kind made in Canada," thereby providing more protection for Canadian manufacturers on the domestic market.

6. Revision of the immigration act to bring it into line with the spirit of the new Bill of Rights.

7. "All possible" federal public works.

8. Continuation of federal grants of 75% up to March for another five years.

9. To encourage more vocational training in Canada, grants of 75% up to March 1963 for the building of technical schools and other training institutions.

10. "Substantial" increases in pensions for veterans and their dependents.

11. Grants to encourage participation of Canadian youth in amateur athletics.

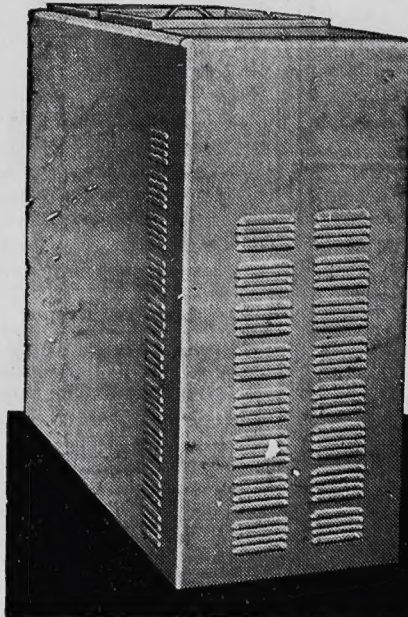

12. Legislation to provide for loans to universities for students' residences.

With the federal government guaranteeing chartered bank loans for this purpose, aid to small business in Canada will take the form of additional medium term credit to enable it to finance additions and improvements to business premises and equipment. "My ministers are convinced," the throne speech said, "that additional medium term credit facilities for small businesses would enable many private projects to go forward this winter all across Canada, providing substantial additional employment. Moreover, this addition to our credit legislation will constitute a continuing stimulus to the growth of Canadian private enterprise."

I will be in Ottawa continuously now, and at your service as usual. I am just as close to you as your mail box, and a stamp is not necessary when writing to your member of parliament when the house is in session. Franking privileges are for your benefit.

HALIBURTON

A Minden fellow who has lived here all his life became lost in the woods and settled down to wait till morning. However some of his mates left after supper and after firing several shots to which he replied, he was immediately located and directed back to camp none the worse for his short stay. We understand another member of his party became turned around and lost for a while as well.

Mr. Ern Voycey of Gamebridge stopped for a few minutes on Sunday at the Phil Robinsons on his way home from his holiday at his hunting camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson attended the funeral on Monday of his aunt, Mrs. Dick Westover of Lindsay.

Mrs. Ron Robinson is confined to a Toronto hospital for several weeks and the boys are staying with friends in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Kent and son Garnet have returned home after spending a holiday with Mr. Jas. Austin at Brady's Lake.

Mr. Frank A. Hughes of McMurray, Alta., is visiting his son, Mr. Murray Hughes of Minden, Mrs. Richard Cavanah, Mrs. Mary Ennes and Mrs. Emily Graham. He has some very interesting tales to tell of his experiences in the oil sands at Athabaska in the west. While in the Minden area he celebrated his 85th birthday at a party at his son's home in Minden.

He has been a resident in the west since 1911 and while there had the post office sometimes called Alsask, Alta., as Alsask, Sask.

His family of eight live at various places, but he makes his home at McMurray in a building which was once a Hudson's Bay trading post at the junction of two rivers.
